THE LOVE GAMBLERS**

Omkara, Rudra and Shivaay are scions of the powerful and affluent Oberoi business family. The cousins are extremely close and always have each other's back. But with plans for succession in the offing, will their love stand the test of wealth?

The Oberoi family is synonymous with flamboyance. The family business had made them a big name in the stock market. With the money also came the glamour. And the three boys – Omkara, Rudra and Shivaay were on every eligible bachelor list ever made. But what made them unique was their love for each other and the inseparable bond they shared. Omkara was the creative one - a sculptor. His exhibitions were the most talked about and the price of his creations, a well kept secret. Rudra being the youngest, was thoroughly spoilt by his brothers – he spent half his day at the gym and other half at parties. Shivaay, the face of the Oberoi business empire is an arrogant and shrewd businessman. He has only two priorities in life - his business and his brothers. Just when life couldn't have been more perfect, destiny strikes. The most eligible bachelors – all three of them – fail dramatically at love. The women who enter their lives after, are in stark contrast to their personalities. But despite that, they find love.....deep, uplifting love.....Finally, the picture was perfect!!!! But that's when the family was torn with strife on issues of succession. Will the brothers bring together the family...?

Saraswatichandra

SARAS & KUMUD****

A poignant love story of star crossed lovers, Saras and Kumud, who pine for each other but destiny denies them the joy of coming together.

Saraswatichandra (Saras) is a young, cultured aristocrat from Dubai. His father, Laxminandan, arranges Saras' wedding with Kumud, the well-educated and ravishing daughter of his best friend, Vidyachatur. However, Saras, who is distraught at the death of his mother, refuses to marry her. He visits her family to convey his rejection but eventually falls in love with Kumud and a short but deep romance follows. Saras returns to Dubai to inform his family of his changed decision but becomes the target of a series of evil plots hatched by his wicked step-mother Gumaan. A shattered and disheartened Saras disowns his family and moves out of his house. Disenfranchised by his family, Saras feels that he is not worthy of Kumud anymore. He cancels the wedding. To save her family's reputation, a heartbroken Kumud is forced to marry Pramod, an alcoholic, who mistreats her. A wild turn of events brings Saras back into Kumud's marital house and despite their strong love and attraction for each other, they stay loyal to Kumud's marital oath. Saras makes it his life's agenda to reform Pramod, for Kumud's happiness, but eventually, Pramod de-generates into madness and attempts to kill Kumud. A tortured Kumud is forced to separate from Pramod and unite with Saras. Saraswatichandra is a classic tale of intense love, heart ache, yearning and longing between two people, who despite knowing that they can never be together, sacrifice themselves for each other.

Opposites attract. And just like Suraj and Sandhya who, despite being poles apart were made for each other, in season 2, their daughter Kanak sets out on a journey with Uma Shankar...

Tu Sooraj Mein Saanjh Piyaji is the sequel to the hugely popular - Diya Aur Baati Hum. Kanak - Sandhya & Suraj's daughter is a free-spirited, modern girl who craves for her grandmother's love. But her grandmother mistakenly holds her responsible for her parent's death and has not spoken to her in years. After their death, Sooraj's sweet shop is now in Uma Shankar's custody. Uma Shankar is an Ayurvedic (ancient Indian medical science) doctor and an orthodox believer in ancient scriptures. His notion of an ideal wife is a woman who works like a servant, is shrewd like a minister, feeds like a mother, pleases in bed like a celestial maiden, looks like a goddess and is patient like Mother Earth. When Kanak first meets him, she tears his philosophy apart. But in order to get back the sweet shop and win her grandmother's love, she gives in to Uma Shankar's love and marries him. Uma Shankar puts Kanak through the "Ideal Wife" test. If she clears it, the sweet shop will be hers. Will Kanak put up with his parochialism for the sake of her grandmother's love???

Chandra Nandini

Chandra Nandini is a historical costume drama. It is loosely based on the lesser-known, but tumultuous love-story of the brave Indian warrior King, Chandragupta Maurya and the daughter of his enemy, Princess Nandini.

Medieval India was ruled by various dynasties who were constantly at war with each other for expansion and wealth. The lack of unity among the dynasties led to the arrival of Alexander, The Great - the Greek emperor who sought to conquer India. Fully aware that the princely states will be too busy fighting amongst themselves to even understand Alexander's threat, Chanakya, a renowned political strategist devises a plan. He presents his plan to halt Alexander's expansion to the Nanda dynasty and seeks their help. But his plan is ridiculed, he is humiliated and thrown out of the palace by King Mahapadma Nanda. The enraged Chanakya vows revenge. Soon, he meets Chandragupta, a bright and powerful young boy of no lineage. He trains Chandragupta in warfare and political strategy and finally drives home a victory against the Nanda dynasty. Nandini is the daughter of King Mahapadma Nanda. As groomed by Chanakya, Chandragupta believes that marriage is a business transaction, contracted for political and economic gain. After his conquest of the Nanda dynasty, Chandragupta marries Nandini. But Nandini wishes to marry only for love. She hates Chandra as he is the killer of her father and brothers. How the two bitter political enemies unite in marriage and how their hate, which eventually turns into deep love, determines the course of their lives is the story of Chandra Nandini.

High above snow-capped mountains, the ascetic is deep in meditation. He is Lord Shiva - his body smeared in ash, draped in animal hide with a skull in his hand. He is withdrawn...indifferent... alone...except the dogs that give him company. He was busy destroying the world until the Goddess entered his life and forced him to make the journey from hermit to householder. Mahadev, the mythological, depicts the legends surrounding the most mysterious God in the Indian pantheon. Based on the Shiva Puran, Mahadev tells the story of the ascetic establishing a home and playing the role of husband and father so that his great wisdom and powers can benefit the world at large. Mythology combined with technology in this show to create a stunning and surreal visual treat. With popular TV actors in lead roles, Mahadev created a paradigm shift in the presentation of mythologicals on TV.

For 12 years, Kunti Devi had been seeking and praying for a multi talented daughter-in-law for her 37 year old son Kanhaiya. Finally God appeared and granted her a boon. But her expectations were so many that there wasn't one girl in the universe with all the qualities. And that's why Kanhaiya was forced to marry five different girls.....

Kunti Devi is a fastidious woman who had spent the last 12 years of her life searching for an ideal daughter-in-law for her son Kanhaiya. As per her requirements, the girl should definitely have 5 qualities - she should be beautiful, cook well, be highly educated, be loving and also be religious. Kunti Devi was unwilling to settle even if any one of these qualities was missing. Kanhaiya was now 37 years old and way past the marriageable age. So when the 272nd alliance was also rejected by her, in a fit of anger, Kunti Devi lands up at the temple. She challenges the Lord that she had served him loyally for 12 long years. It was now time that he fulfill her only wish. She vowed to not leave the temple until he appears in front of her. The Lord appears and grants her wish - only with a slight hitch. Since it was impossible to find one girl with all five qualities, he sends her five girls with five different qualities. As per Kanhaiya's promise to God, he is forced to marry all five girls. Needless to say, all hell breaks loose.

Sumit Sambhal Lega is the Hindi adaptation of Warner Bros.' Everybody Loves Raymond. Sumit the lead character of the hindi series is a sports reporter always toggling between his maiden family and married family. That his parents lived right below him and keep flitting in and out of his house, is perhaps not such an issue with Sumit, but it definitely drives his assertive and outspoken wife, Maya up the wall. While Sumit's parents are typically Delhi - Punjabi and old school, Maya is from Mumbai and believes in the concept of "personal space" - a term which his parents have not even heard of. The day-to-day clash of these two diametrically opposite worldviews in the smallest of everyday problems leads to hilariously comic situations. Sumit, the poor guy caught in this crossfire is left balancing both - his mother and his wife.....and the rest of their baggage.

Nach Baliye

DANCE MY LOVE!!****

An indigenously developed dance reality show where celebrity TV couples compete against each other. Nach Baliye has high octane on-screen dances coupled with high intensity off screen drama – a heady combination that makes it hugely popular.

The idea of Nach Baliye was to create a reality show featuring TV celebrities who were popular characters in other drama series. The idea clicked instantly with the audiences who were excited to see their favourite TV celebrities dancing with their real life partners, some of whom were also TV celebrities while others were rank novices. The show is a dance competition wherein 10 celebrity couples compete against each other. Contestants prepare and dance to a different tune, different theme and different styles every week as judges score their performances. Each week, one couple is eliminated on the basis of judges scores and audience voting. A new season with fresh celebrities is unveiled every year and new elements have been added over the last 8 seasons.

Nach Baliye is India's top rated dance reality show with outstanding participants, opulent sets and racy razzmatazz!
